CHOLERA OR SOME MALIGNANT DISEASE AKIN TO IT,

Breaks out in Dubuque----Twenty Deaths ... People Fleeing in all Directions.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, July 30 .- A disease akin to cholera is ravaging Center Point, Linn county, this State, Fully twenty persons have died from its effects during the past thirteen days, and an equal number have been prostrated by it. It is also raging in Walker-Littletown, seyen miles from Center Point. several deaths having occurred there. An order for forty coffins was received from Center Point, yesterday, by the Dubuque undertakers. The physicians of Center Point are worn out, and the residents are fleeing from the place.

The Yellow Fever.

MEMPHIS, July 30 .- Four new cases of yellow fever were reported to the board of health this morning. They were Rosa Hendricks, John Creeden, C. H. Smith and Maggie Townes. No deaths have been reported up to noon. W. W. Corcoran, banker at Washington, D. C., has sent a check for $2,000 to be used for the removal of the poor and destitute from the city. Of the sick it is reported that Brooks Wilson, S. A. Hatcher, Miles Owen and Michael Athey are in a critical condition. The weather is now more settled.

Jews in England.

Saturday Review. Like Jews in general, Baron Roth schild was ready to part with money freely in order to help the suffering, and especially the suffering members of his own creed. At the time of the dreadful Irish famine he gave not only money, but much time and thought, to the remedy of distress, and took an active part in the distribution of the large funds subscribed by the sympathizing mass of horror-stricken Englishmen. He remained really, and not merely nominally, a Jew, and was one of the leading merchants of the chief London synagogue. The Rothschilds are too rich too powerful, and too socially important to be tempted to seek to rise by calculated conversion, and educated Jews appear to manage with ease the task of discarding what is now impossible or impracticable in their creed, and pass through life happily enough, filled with the pride of an ancestral religion, and solaced by the grandeur of monotheism. The prejudices against Jews as a body which once were widely entertained in England are gradually fading away, and will, perhaps, some day wholly disappear, although it must be owned that they still exist, and are not altogether without such justification as is afforded by the appearance and character of Jews of the lower class. It cannot be doubted that this mitigaprejudice is in some degree du to the eminence, public services and social magnificence of such families as the Rothschilds. The last, and perhaps as he himself thought, the crowning trimph of Baron Lionel's life was to win the Derby, the temporary possession of the winner having fortunately secured either by his son or himself. To win the Derby is a great glory to any one, and the Roth-schilds could scarcely have done anything better adapted to insure their popularity than to show they could succeed in racing as well as in everything else. But the worship of wealth, of grandeur, and of success has not been the main agent in leading Englishmen to look with more impartial eyes on the Jews. The ability and acumen of the master of the rolls attract at least as much favorable attention as the riches of the Rothschilds, and Englishmen have really got to like Jews better because they know them Jewish character to be found more or less in all Jews who have not had to struggle against too great disadvantages, Toleration of the most ample and unwavering kind, free-handed charity, and strong common sense are the most marked traits of this character; and most Jewish families exhibit the peculiarity of setting as much store on the attainment of high education and the development of business faculties in the women as in the men. The family, of the Rothschilds is in these respects a typical Jewish family, and the respect paid to it on this score must in fairness be added to the respect which, no doubt, is paid to vast wealth, when account is taken of the high position it

Washington Post.

Some of the Western papers are raising a note of jubilation over the alleged return of Greenbackers to the Republican fold. The rejoicing is premature. There has been no such movement, nor is there likely to be. When those men left their old party, they were branded with an almost endless variety of insulting epithets. Hatred and scorn have followed them from the hour of their departure. With much more bitterness than they have ever shown toward the Democracy, the Radicals have assailed their old associates who went into the National or Greenback organization. That is not the style of treatment that brings men back to their old party. All the honeyed phrases that the Radicals are applying to the Greenbackers now, cannot make them forget or forgive the scorn, the insult and contempt of last year, and previous

How Political Stability Affects Country's Production.

One of the most painful consequences of the late war with Germany was that it imposed upon France an increased taxation of £28,000,000 ($140,000,000). It has been the duty and glory of the Republic to try and wipe out this debt, and the writer states that within the last four years it has been found possible to repeal some of the most obnoxious taxes, and this to the extent of more than £4,000,000 ($20,000,000.) The fact of certain taxes producing a larger revenue than estimated permitted this operation. A report of the minister of finance recently published shows that since the Revolution the revenue of the soil has increased from £60,000,000 ($300,000,000) to £160,000,000, ($800,000,-000). "At the commencement of 1872 new taxes were gradually imposed; labor had revived with a real furia Francoise, and, taking everything into account, the burden was not too great. It was the same during the year 1873. If we compare these two years one sees that the old taxes produced in the latter year about £3,500,000 ($17,500,000) more than in the former year. In 1873, too, the new taxes exceeded the estimates by about the same sum-£3,500,000)—and no doubt but for political intrigues, the overthrow of M. Thiers and the projects of a monarchial restoration, the results would have 1873, there was a deficit of 35,000,000f. ($3,000,000.)But with 1875 came brighter days, the constitution was voted, the republic proclaimed, the country recovered its liberty of action, and the taxes produced 140,000,000f. ($28,000,000, taxes produced 140,000,000f. ($28,000,000, more than they had done during the preceding year. In 1875 the ascending movement continued, but owing to external causes, the increase in the yield of the revenue was only .36,000,000f., ($7,200,000.) In 1877 the baneful influences of former years appeared. There was general uneasiness, France was pushed by the Duc de Broglie and his colleagues to the brink of civil war, and the consequence was a deficit of 9,000,000f., ($1,750,000). With 1878 came the definite triumph of the Republic, and once more the national prosperity exhibited itself by an excess of 77,000,000f. ($15,-400,000) over the estimates. This won-derful development of wealth is due to the fact that, while dynasties consolidate themselves by military glory-by war, which tramples harvests under foot and which sweeps away the youth of the country—Republics repose upon labor. They prefer the noise of the machine at work to that of a squadron on the march, and they know that each man laid low by a shell is so much capital lost. This is why at no other epoch has France produced so much. Never has her financial situation been so prosperous. As for the taxes, which have their origin in the last crimes and follies of the Empire, she will pay them off to the last million. It must not be supposed from this that the public services have been starved and that the brilliant financial results obtained by the Republic have been procured by cheeseparing. Far from that. The Conservatives complain that the expenditure is reckless and that the number of persons employed by the government has increased, and, in fact, the accusation is true. The war estimates have exceeded the sum of £22,-000,000 ($110,000,000,) without counting £60,000,000 ($300,000,000) expended since 1871 in fortifications, replenishing arsen is and reorming troops. Officers' pensions, the pay of sergeants and the rations of privates have been increased. Double the amount is spent under the Empire. It is the same with public works, and even the cause of the clergy has not been pieaded in

A Destructive Storm. The New York Herald's special dis patch from Pittsburg gives an account of the damage done by the storm of Saturday last in that part of the country. The rain fell in such quantities that the Monongahela river rose at the rate of six inches an hour, and the creeks became so swollen as to flood the low lands. The destruction of property has been much greater than was at first supposed. Although the special report mentions but two deaths—the one of a mother who had succeeded in saving her children, but was subsequently drowned herself, and the other of a boy who was carried away by the flood-there are rumors of persons missing who are supposed to have los their lives through the sudden rising of the waters. The principal sufferers through which runs Bear Creek, a tributary of the Allegheny River. Two towns in this valley, about forty miles from Pittsburg, were swept away by the deluge, and houses, stores, farm buildings and grain were carried off and destroyed. The railroads and pipe lines were much damaged, and the effects of the heavy rain extended for many miles. The saying that it is an ill wind that blows nobody good was, however, illustrated by this storm. The rise in the river has released sixteen million bushels of coal and coke which had been long awaiting shipment, and the down river towns have been saved from a coal famine. Five hundred barges, with six million bushels of coal and coke left on the rise, and the

How a Beautiful and Happy Wife

Fell a Victim to the Bottle. Washington Post. The death of Mrs. Preston, the wife of Assistant Paymaster William M. Preston, United States Navy, has caused a painful senation in the large circle in which she, until recently, moved. She was twenty-seven years of age, and had been married to Preston for about six years, being then a Miss Haines, born in the Bermudas. The unfortunate habit of intemperance acquired by the deceased, was the cause of her husband leaving her five days ago at a boarding-house on G street, between Tenth and Eleventh. She left there on Wednesday, and came to the Bayard house, on Tenth and Eleventh streets, under the escort of A. J. Whalen, known as "Bob" Whalen, formerly in the water office. She stated, and it is thought believed that her husband would follow her in a few days. Yesterday morning she asked the call-boy to fetch her some whisky, and on learning it was against the rules of the house, tried to bribe him to do so. Falling in this, she dressed, and herself bought a quart of liquor. She was never seen alive again, and it is supposed died before 10 o'clock, as the servant then tried to get into the room opened with the "pass" key, and the body or the unfortunate woman cold in death, the purple face and half-emptied bottle indicating the manner of her deceased. Dr. J. E. Morgan was summoned, but, of course, pronounced life extinct. The coroner and Dr. Hartigan afterward examined the body and certified to the cause of death, deeming an inquest unnecessary. Word was sent to her husband, who lives at 118 Green street, Georgetown, but he could not be found. The body was taken charge of at about 8 o'clock last night by the sister and brother-in- law and soon afterward Mr. Preston arrived, having been in Baltimore The husband and wife were a strikingly handsome pair, and the early period of their married life is said tohave been very happy.

Poisoned Delicacies.

Sanitary boards from time to time supply to the public lists of articles sold as food or to be used in culinary processes which are merely adulterated or actually injurious or poisonous. Flavoring extracts commonly count as important items in these domestic bills of indictment, and the families in Pennsylvania reported as poisoned by homemade ice cream are, perhaps vic-tims to the "essence" with which they gave their dainty a piquant taste. One account, it is true, represents them as poison through the fact that the 'custard" for their cream was "boiled" in a brass kettle. Ice cream made from custard or the elements of custard is not anknown to art-poor art, however -but if that custard is boiled, that is enough. It does not need any theory to account for trouble in the human stomach filled with custard that has been first boiled and then frozen. No brass kettle is necessary. We incline to the opinion, however, that these sufferers were victims to "extracts," which are bright colored poisons sold restoration, the results would have been even more favorable." In 1874, during the reaction, matters changed; the receipts fell off, and instead of a surplus of 177,000,000f, ($35,400,000) as in

Sherman has met the expectation of his audiences would be asserting what any one could see was not the case. The lack of attention shown him case. The lack of attention shown him was in many instances painful. An ordinary lecturer would have been more formally received than he has been. At Lewiston there was a debate where to go—not even the name of the best hotel having been furnished him or his party. Finally Congressman Frye put in an appearance and took the Secretary to his private residence. The next day Mr. Sherman had to stay three hours in Brunswick to make connection with the train. There live ex-Governor Chamberlain and several other stalwart politicians, but not one of them put in an appearance, and after A FINGR CHIEF MARRYING HIS The Wedding Ring. At Augusta several of Mr. Brane's friends had assembled at the depet out of curricults but no demonstration was made by a score or two of thatched huts. Within this enclosure sat two rows of matrons with arms-full of children, and within them again stood a dense body of swarthy warriors armed with shield and spear and ranged round the had assembled at the depet out of curiosity but no demonstration was made. But this was not remarkable, as the reception in most places was ictually shabby; indeed, neglect has been the marked characteristic of the whole tour. Respect for the dignity of the Secretary's official position it was thought would have commanded for him more attention, but it did, though it is noteworthy that wherever Mr. Blains was there was some kind of reception. kraal so as to leave a tolerable-sized space unoccupied in the center; where the bridegroom (who by the by, was a gray-headed toothless old man of seventy), occupied a raised seat directly expelled from their kraal, grazed cautiously around and about the huts, ever and anon raising their heads and was some kind of reception

All About the Dog-Days.

This uninteresting spell of weather commenced the 25th, and continues until the 5th of September. The dogdays are really upon us, and we must a long train of tawny damsels, slowly wending their way among bright green patches of Indian corn and masses of flowering shrubs, studded with giant cactus and the huge flowering aloe. As the procession neared the huts they quickened their pace and raised their voices to the highest pitch, till they arrived at the kraal, where they stood motionless and silent. bear the hot, sticky, murky, and disagreeable weather as best we can. Dur-ing their reign there is little life in the air, little exhiberation in the sunlight, and little electricity in the animal economy. "This is a regular dog-day!" will be an oft-repeated remark during the forty days to come. Every one will recognize the kind of weather described in the exclamation, though every one will not remember the origin of the word which from long usage is synonymous with it. Dog-days is a term for which we are indebted to the ancient Thebans, who first cultivated astronomy in Egypt, and determined the length of the year by the number of risings of the dog-star, or Sirius. At the season of the year when this bril-iiant star rose with the sun their combined influence was supposed to be productive of pestilential heat and all manner of baneful influences. Therefore the Egyptians watched the conjunction of Sirius and the sun with mingled feelings of hope and fear, for it foretold to them the rising of the Nile, and was ominous of fruitful crops or devastating droughts. Their dog-days extended from the 4th of August to the 14th of Septmber. The rising of Sirius, however, has been so accelerated by the precession of the equinoxes during the passage of more than two thousand years that the corresponding conditions for the anxious dogs. Nile, and was ominous of fruitful crops conditions for the ancient dog-days would include them within the 3d of July and the 11th of August. It will readily be seen that our. modern dog-days have no connection with the rising of Sirius or any other star, because no permanent data can be based upon stars whose positions are always changed by the falling of the equinoctial points. The dog-days refer to a particular kind of weather, which marks about forty days occurring a month after the summer solstice, an based entirely on that epoch. They simply retain an ancient name, as in many other instances, without retaining its significance. It may seem strange that Sirius which is seen overhead in midwinter, should be associated with the heat of summer; but it must be remembered that this star is overhead in midsummer in the day time, though, like the other stars, invissible on account of the sun.

Fortunately for humanity, the dogdays are not made up entirely of days wearing to the flesh and depressing to the spirit. Some of the most delightful days of the summer are interspered with those that try' men's souls, while in return many a regular dog-day en-créachs upon a later and more enjoyble portion of the year. This proves that physical experience is the counterpart of human experience. Sunshine and serenity are followed by clouds and storms, just as enjoyment of life is fol-lowed by its crosses and perplexities. Perfect weather is as impossible under the physical laws that rule our planet as perfect happiness is under the laws that regulate our mental and moral well-being. The most commendable philosphy is, therefore, that which makes the best of external conditions and finds sources for contentment and improvement under the darker as well of the brighter influences that sur-

MOODY AND SANKEY.

THE RETURN OF THE GREAT RE-VIVAL SINGER FROM EUROPE.

His Reception in New York-Sankey Sings a Song and Moody Drives

New York, July 28 .- Ira D. Sankey, the revival singer, arrived in New York from Europe on Saturday on the City of Berlin, of the Inman Line. Mr. Sankey was accompanied by his wife and child, and all are in excellent health. Although Mr. Sankey went abroad to seek rest and recreation, he responded freely to the demands made upon him in England and on the Continent of Europe. Mr. Mooly came from his home in Northfield, Mass., to New York to meet Mr. Sankey, and the entire party met at the Metropolitan Hotel. C. W. Sawyer, who is conducting a series of Gospel Temperance meetings at Cooper Union, yesterday availed himself of the presence of Messrs. Moody and Sankey in the city to give additional interest to the meetings, and at the same time to give the friends of Mr. Sankey an opportunity to welcome him home. Although 3 o'clock was the hour which the meeting was opened. the crowd began to assembly in the street before 2 and within ten minutes after the doors were opened every seat in the great hall was occupied, and the several entrances were blockaded with men and women. The stage, which has been enlarged for the necessities of these meetings, was occu-pied by about three hundred ladies and rentlemen, who compose the choir. A pentioned, who compared to pention and parlor organ stood near to-gether in the center. Mr. Sankey, on entering, took his seat at the organ by the side of L. P. Thatcher, who led the singing.

Shortly before 3 o'clock, Mr. Moody made his appearance at the rear of the platform, and the audience broke into applause. Hastily advancing he raised his head, saying "hush, hush" as he did so, and seating himself at a table bowed his head for a few moments in silent prayer. He then announced hymn, and the service of song was continued for half an hour, when Mr. Sankey sung alone. "He Will Hide Me," after which Mr. Moody offered a short prayer. Mr. Sankey addressed a few remarks to the audience, express-ing his pleasure at returning home, and Sawyer is engaged.

Mr. Moody then read a chapter in the

Mr. Moody then read a chapter in the Bible, after which he called for the sing-ing of the hymn, entitled "Come." Be-fore the singing Mr. Moody related an anecdote of a man who had been led to conversion by it. The speaker said that the man in giving his experience told him that the sermon did not touch stant utterance of that simple word 'come." It irritated him to hear the choir repeating it, and finally he went home mad with the meeting, mad with the preacher and mad with himself. "Now," said Mr. Moody, "if you get a man disgusted with himself there is some hope of saving him. This man went to bed that night but could not get that word out of his mind, The pillow seemed to say "come," the bed seemed to say "come" and everything in the room seemed to say "come." He got out of bed, found the hymn book. and by and by got so mad that he put the book in the fire. The next day he was wretched and thought he would go back to the meeting. When he entered I was giving out the same hymn, and he began to curse me. Finally the man got another hymn-book and read the hymn over and over. Then he made up his mind to come, and he came, just as he was with all his sin, all his profanity, all his drunkenness

Mr. Moody then directed that the singing should proceed. When it was ended he said: "And now my text is just in that one word that has been sung, and if I can make of my sermon a sort of a hammer, to drive that nai home with, I shall have accomplished my object. I am sure the text is short enough, and if you cannot remember the sermon you can at least remember the text. The LVth chapter of Isaiah and the 3d verse says: "Incline your ear and come unto me, and your soul shall live." It is important that a man should listen to the voice of God. There is no chance of getting a man to think until you can get his ear. We are apt to lend our ears to others. People will come and listen to a sermon and say, "that's a good hit at a neighbor of mine. I wish he was here this afternoon." Or perhaps you will think that the man is just behind you, or in front of you, to whom the sermon seems addressed. We are very gener-ous with sermons. A colored preacher once said his people gave his sermons all away and didn't take any of them home. I believe that many a man goes to church and never hears the sermon. I once said to a man, "How is it you attended church for twenty years and never became converted until now?" He replied, "I used to plan all my business in church. I would review the past week and see where I had made a mistake, and then I would plan for the next week and go out and execute it." God says "hear and you shall live." When God speaks we can afford to listen. The next "come" to which I want to call your attention is "come and see." You may talk about the beauty of Jesus Christ, but you cannot make a man see until he sees with his own eyes. You cannot describe that beauty. Our souls are born spiritually blind, and they can see nothing until they open in Christ. Some men say that the whole plan of redemption is a mystery, and that they do not understand it; but God says, "Come now and let us reason together." And He says, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." He did not say, "I will send it to you." He says. "Come unto me and I will give you rest." The trouble is that many bring their burdens to Him and convert them away again. carry them away again. They go to their closets and throw it open at His feet but when they get up again they swing their burdens over their shoulders once more and go on. And all that are athirst are asked to come and drink of the water of life freely without money and without price. Christ is the living fountain which never runs dry. It has been flowing on for nineteen hundred years, and the drunkard and the harlot, the thief and the vagabond can, if they will press to this fountain of life. Too many ministers only give chaff. There are some who give full wheat, but there are a good many men in the pulpit who do not know the Gospel themselves. I have been with Christ a number of years. Every year I seem to reach a mountain top and to get a fresh glimpse of Him and He seems still better and more beautiful further on.

familiarly associated, and Mr. Moody made the address. At the conclusion of the meeting crowds gathered around the platform and shook hands with the two gentlemen.

Capture of a Negro Accessory in the Crime--- Describing the Semi-Decapitation of the Victims.

ATLANTA, July 28.—The detectives looking up the Defoor murder heard to-day of a strange negro, with plenty of money, near Atlanta, and went after him, taking bloodhounds. They tracked him and run him down catching him him and run him down, catching him in a haymow where he was hidden. The dogs tore into the mow and seized his leg. A short, stumpy negro then crawled from the hay and said, "You are after the wrong man; I never done and after a while confessed in a most cir cumstantial way that he held the ligh while the murder was being committed. He says he was loafing about the Defoor house when a white man and a negro asked him to go with them. He went, they saying that there was money in it. The white man went into the house be-fore dark and stayed there until after dark, when he came to the door and whistled. They went to him. The prisoner was then sent to the next house for an axe, and got it. He then went into the house, and they were all there together. He says they struck a metab and little the law and a metab and little to the law and a metab and little to the law and a metab and little to law and a metab and little law and match and lit the lamp and commenced to search the drawers.

A FRIGHTFUL DEED.

The white man became impatient, and, cursing him to hold the light over the bed where the old folks were lying. He did so and found them in a sound and peaceful sleep. The white man raised the axe, swung it clear round, and then struck it into the old man's neck. The latter never murmured, but the tramp seemed to think one more blow necessary, and struck another, almost severing the head from the body. He then handed the axe to the body. He then handed the axe to the other regro, who struk into the neck of the old lady. She moarned slightly, but never awoke. Only one blow was given her. The two then returned to their search and succeeded in getting about $500 in money, when they left. The captured negro was given a small share of the money, when the others left him and he has not seen them since. He described them fully and gave the He described them fully and gave the route which they took on the departure. The detectives are pursuing them, and it is thought they will be taken to-night. There is no doubt that the captive negro was present at the murder and had something to do with it, although there is some doubt as to the truth of the story he tells of his accomplices. A scrap of the Cincinnati Gazette was found in the room which the tramp occapied in the afternoon, and it is thought that he was working his way from the West to the coast.

VACATION IN THE COURTS.

Words of Hollday Comfort for the Judge and Lawyer.

Vacation is the current topic. Vaca tion is a very different thing in reality

from the dry definition given by Bou-

Albany Law Journal, July 26th.

vier in his law dictionary, "the period between the end of one term and the beginning of the next." Lawyers take little note of that kind of vacation, fo it is then that they are most vexed. Some ignorant people think that law-yers do not need vacations, that all they have to do is to make an easy and brilliant display for a few hours in term time, and "rake in a pile" of money. The race without the training, the battle without the strategy, are what the public look at. They see the lawyer sitting in his chambers, a cigar in his mouth and his heels on a table, and they think he is idle. These are really his busy, anxious months of brooding, when he is pregnant with the ideas which he brings forth in a few hours of sharp parturition in court. The lawyer is never idle, even when apparently most idle. He always has a persistent file of clients who want to be told the ame thing a hundred times over, and who never will believe that they are possibly in the wrong. He always has a troublesome antagonist lying in wait for him. His clients are always un-candid or imprudent. His witnesses are always evasive or disappointing The judge always knows too much or too little for him. He is always the prey of disappointment, meeting defeat where he expected success, or what is only a little less mortifying, achieving unexpected victory. He is the victin of close chambers and poisonous court-rooms; of harrowing suspense, of intense mental excitement, of great physical strain. His labors invade his sleep and give him bad dreams. Finally, with the approach of the dog-star, sleep utterly deserts him. Truly, he needs a vacation. Beware of the lawyer, who, being able to take a vacation, does not. Mr. Vohles in "Bleak House" is the type of these, whose desk is truly their client's "rock." The danger of the lawyer in vacation is that he will only "make believe" recreate himself. Vacation is no time for writing law books or making business journeys. The mind needs wholly to unbend with the body. There was a recent cartoon designed to be satirical, representing, in one panel, the seat of justice empty and surrounded by law-yers shouting for injunctions, manamuses, certioraris, arrests, attachments and the like; and in the other. the judge in his shirt-sleeves, swinging in a hammock, in a rural place, with fan and cigar, and flanked by bottles full and empty, and paper-covered novels, the device being "$12,000 a year." Now, leaving the bottles out of the question, that is the way to spend vacaion. Let the lawyer, like the merchant, loll in the shade or swing in the hammock, swim in the surf or rock or the billows, angle for trout or troll for blue-fish, play billiards or croquet, drive, ride, row, shoot, climb, sport with children, flirt with ladies or in dulge in anything else unintellectual. Let him live out doors and "near to nature's heart." But let him eschew study and late hours, conventions, balls, except base-ball; parties, especially political parties; and long journeys in the heated term. If anybody. proposes a "little law question," "shoot him on the spot." Let the Government go to destruction for a few weeks, if it trashy novels which he will be sure to forget, and which there is no virtue in remembering. Let him not try to "im-preve himself," but let him industriously strive for a month or six weeks to forget all he ever knew. The brain must lie fallow or wear out. The London Law Journal once wisely said: after thirty years of unbroken industry we were allowed thirty years of healthy leisure in which to enjoy the wealth we had earned, the reasonable course would be to give up youth and manhood to severe and protracted labor. But it is not so, and he is most wise who so tempers toil with relaxation as to preserve his mental and bodily vigor to

THE BOW OF PROMISE

THE TEVER IN MEMPHIS ABATING -NOT EPIDEMIC.

An Early Resumption of Busine Predicted---What the Editor of the "Appeal" Thinks.

WASHINGTON, July 30 .- Colonel Keating, editor of the Memphis Appeal. direct from Memphis, which place he left on Saturday evening last, says that he thinks the fever there has spent its force. The people left in the city are so few in number that it will be impossible for it to spread. He reports the authorities of Memphis as having the affairs of the city well in hand, and that they will be able to care for all without having to appeal for aid from outside. The cases so far developed, he says, in no way present the malignant form the fever did during the epidemic of last year. He anticipates that within six weeks business in Memphis will be going on as usual. Thus far the deaths by fever have not exceeded the number of those from other causes, and until this should be the case it would be contrary to custom to pronounce it epidemic. It was not until the 24th of August last year that the fever was so declared, and up to that time there had been three hundred and six cases and ninety-six deaths, extending over a period of four or five weeks.

The Terrible Death of Little Nellie Cox from Hydrophobia.

CHESTER, Pa., July 29.—Little Nellie Cox, the six-year-old daughter of Crosby M. Cox, of this city, died at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, after suffering for more than five days the greatest torture from hydrophobia. The little thing bore up bravely under her affliction. For about twenty-four hours before she died she became very restless, tossing from one side of the bed to the other and writhing in the most violent conand writhing in the most violent con-vulsions. At times she would become vulsions. At times she would become quiet and have all the appearance of going to sleep, when suddenly she would start up in great excitement and remain so far a long time. The sight of any object, the appearance of any one in her room, passing a hand over her, or even a gentle breeze would throw her into a spasm. She had intense fever, and when she would ask for water to wet her lips or blow it was with the yer, and when she would ask for water to wet her lips or blow it was with the greatest difficulty she received it. She retained her reason throughout and knew she ought to take nourishment, but when she reached for a glass or cup she would catch hold of it quickly in a spasmodic manner, attempt to swallow its contents hastily and sink back on the pillow exhausted. Her most restless time was during Friday night. Saturday morning she sank rapidly. The frequent and continued convulsions were too mach for her nervous system, and she began to los strength. Her eyes grew dim several hours before she died. By noon on Saturday she was thoroughly prostra-ted, and three hours later she passed away quiedly. Her parents are almost wild with grief from the loss of their only daughter. The citizens sympa-thize very much, for little Nellie was known and loved by nearly every-

MRS. DORSEY'S WILL.

How the Bequeathed all her Proper-

BEAUVOIR, Harricon county, Miss., Jan. 4, 1878.—I, Sarah Anne Dorsey, of Tensas Parish, La., being aware of the uncertainty of life, and being now in sound health in mind and body, do make my last will and testament, which I write, sign and seal with my own hand, in the presence of three compe-tent witnesses, as I possess property in the States of Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

I owe no obligation of any sort whatever to any relative of my own. I have done all I could for them during my life. I therefore give and bequeath all my property, real, personal and mixed, wherever located and situated, wholly and entirely without hindrance or qualification, to my most honored and esteemed friend, Jefferson Davis, ex-President of the Confederate States, for his own sole use and benefit, in fee simple, forever; and I hereby constitute him my sole heir, executor and administrator. If Jefferson Davis should not survive me, I give all I have bequeathed him to his youngest daughter, Vavins. I do not intend to share in the ingratitude of my country to-ward a man who is, in my eyes, the highest and noblest in existence. In testimony whereof I sign this will, written by my own hand, in the presence of W. T. Walthall, T. F. Hewes and John C. Craig, subscribing witnesses, resident in Harrison county, Mississippi. SARAH ANN DORSEY.

The Fever and the Exodus.

Durham Recorder. M. A W. Graham returned last week from a trip to Memphis and Arkansas. He had left the former several days before the fever, but says, even then, the business outlook wore a gloomy aspect. The city, oppressed with debt, was trying to throw its charter overboard; but to which all the Courts were opposed. Of Arkansas, and all the region he visited, his accounts are scarcely more pleasant. Unmitigated drought for months had nearly destroyed all crops. Except on the Mississippi bottoms, so unhealthy that the white man can scarcely live, cotton looked badly, corn was nearly destroyed, cattle were per-ishing from want of water, families were becoming sickly from the use of the foul water drawn from half dried wells, or from pestilential streams; and his whole narrative presents a distressing picture of human suffering. Since leaving Memphis, all this suffering is intensified by the appearance of the pestilence.

Mr. Graham traveled and conversed with numbers of the victims of the exodus to Kansas, and without exception found the negroes glad to get back home, and loud in their denunciation of the deception practiced upon them.

Charlotte Observer.

A gentleman just from Lumberton says of Miss Amelia Linkhaw, whose trial for the killing of her alleged seducer, Edward Hartman, at a hotel in Lumberton last fall, will come on at the fall term of Robeson Superior Court, to meet in November; that she is now in excellent health and spirits. She is still in jail, but has the privileges of the prison and receives visitors almost daily. The child of misfortune to which she gave birth just after she shot Hartman, is with its mother, and is a bright and handsome little girl.

THURSDAY, - - - JULY 31, 1879. JOE MARTIN belongs to Hendrick

B. Wright's traveling show. It was according to the eternal fitness of things this Pennsylvania demagogue should be put at the head of a committee to investigate the depression in labor, with the jocular Joe Martin to help him. Randall has displayed the same exquisite taste and discrimination in the constitution of this committee that he displayed in making Covert, a handsome young lawyer from New York, chairman of the committee on agriculture over Aiken, a noted South Carolina planter and agriculturist. On his way to Chicago, where the committee is now sitting, Martin stopped in Washington City and "taffied" the unsophisticated correspondent of the Baltimore Sun. He told the Sun man that Sherman was way ahead in North Carolina. Grant was nowhere. The Sun sagely remarks thereupon: "The Grant people say that Mr. Martin has feached this conclusion only since the recent suspension of Internal Revenue Collector Powers in North Carolina, a Grant man, and the appointment in his stead of the friend of Mr. Martin, who is a Sherman man."

Speculation about the "hard times"depression in trade, industry and finances-is idle talk. Profitless as all concede it to be the country presents the spectacle to-day of a committee of congressman traveling over the country in fine palace cars, at the peoples expense, "investigating" a question that has addled the brain of the wisest of our political economists. Think of Hendrick B. Wright and Joe instructing the country Martin in matters of political economy. The thing reselves itself into a show. But for the expense we might enjoy such performances as took place at Chicago last Monday:

Lyman J. Gage, cashier of the First National Bank, was the first witness. He regarded the present supply of He regarded the present supply of money in the country as ample. Although ten years back we had much more money, yet he said the banking business of Chicago was sounder to-day than ever before. He thought the return of prosperity began about eighteen months ago, and that the present outlook was very giverable. In answer outlook was very favorable. In answer to questions by the chairman, he said that doubtless the withdrawal of currency had tended to depress business during the past ten years, but it had not operated as a very essential factor. The depression was a reaction toward the normal standard, which he thought was unnaturally disturbed by the late war and its results. The prosperity of business men and the rate of increase of the population were greater ten years ago in Chicago than they are now but the amount of merchandise handled here now is vastly greater than ten years ago. Being asked what he would suggest in the way of legislation, he said he would repeal the legal-tender quality of United States notes, and pay them on demand to bearer, make gold and silver dollars interchangeable at the United States treasuries, and prevent the issue of and retire outstandstanding notes under the value of five dollars as quickly as possible. It would be a mistake to repeal the national banking law.

George Schneider, president of the National Bank of Illinois, testified that he did not believe in increasing the volume of the currency. The city and its banks were in a healthy state to-day. The panic and the season of bankruptcy had strengthened rather than weakened Chicago, and business, which began to revive a year and a half ago, is in a fine condition. He thought the less Congress bothered with finances the better for the country.

Geo. M. Slean, a farmer of Wisconsin, testified that farms were mertgaged to their full value throughout the State; the price of farm labor was lowering. at present being from 75 cents per day to $10 per month; the penal law of Wis consin, had destroyed the surplus of labo; farmers seemed blind to the fact that three-fourths of the so-called tramps are honest laborers out of work. ught an increase of currency would benefit Wisconsin; the panic of 1873, caused by toe much speculation, caused the existing depression among the laboring classes. He thought the government committed a great wrong in contracting the currency; contract tion meant national suicide: it forced men to do with one dollar what they had agreed to do with two.

Charles Randolph, secretary of the Board of Trade, stated that the general business of the city had been steadily increasing since the fall of 1873, and real estate had been decreasing in value; the Northwest was in better shape than any other part of the country. He believed, therefore, that abundant capital was now seeking permanent investment. He explained the condition of the finances of Chicago, and stated that he believed there was not a city in the country in better condition.

Joseph Eastman, contractor and real estate dealer, gave testimony as to the decrease in rents, price of labor and materials. He thought the city would prosper for a few years, and then we would have another panic.

And for such stuff as this the country is to be taxed that a committee of lunatics (no reflection on the lunatics) may excurt over the country and show their ---- heels.

The California election is a very important one. It may determine the political complexion of the next Presidency. It may so exactly balance power in the 46th Congress that it assumes the highest national importance. We have felt some apprehension for the Democracy of that State. Judging from its unruly and undisciplined Democratic representatives in Congress we have been lead to distrust its fidelity to party organization and to entertain grave doubts of its success in the approaching election. Things have improved there lately. George C. Gorham is supporting the Democratic nominee for Governor in that State. Gorham was the secretary of the Senate for ten years under Republican rule, and was the secretary of the Republican congressional campaign committee during the Hayes canvass and also in the canvass of last fall. He has always been classed as a stalwart leader in his party, and his present course amazes his Republican friends. In explanation, Gorham says he will support the Republican nominee for Congress in his district, and that he is for other Conkling or Grant for President. He believes that the Republican party of return to the sanctum, are not over-California is the friend of monopoly, looked. The editor of the News is a and the creature of the railroad mag- very modest man. If the Banner of nates who are oppressing the people of | Liberty were to nominate him for Gov-

the railroad monopolists, he will surport him. Ex-Governor and ex-United States Cole, another Republican leader in California, has taken the same course as Gorham. These are understood facts in Washington, If true, the signs of a Democratic victory in California are decidedly encouraging.

Anent congressional complications in Steel's district, the Lumberton Robsonian remarks:

We took occasion last week, in rather deprecating mood, to speak of the scramble that is already being entered into for this nomination and after giving an incomplete list of the aspirants, we stated that, so far, we in favor of Colonel Steele, and were gave therefor reasons that were satisfactory to us, his "pledge" not to be a candidate to the contrary notwithstanding. We think that so far as this county is concerned, this "pledge" it is "something new, under the sun," and the question may well be asked to whom was it given. It would have been gratuitous so far as our people are concerned. We think that so far at least, Colonel Steele is the choice of our county. We have no objection to any of the many distinguished gentlemen, whose names are mentioned in this connection. Colonel Charles R. Jones of Charlotte, would wear the honors worthily and his nomination would be a grateful re-cognition of distinguished merit.

The Robesonian says his people favor Colonel Steele for the same reason that they preferred Ashe in 1876: "they are opposed to so often changing their representation at the National Capitol. Colonel Steele is now making a National reputation; and as a matter of course, is in a condition to be of positive advantage to his State and section. Then why change him for another who is not his superior in any essential particlar. So far as pledging not to run again is concerned, we think a public man has no right to stand in the way or out of the way of the people. That is to sav, we do not think a public man has a fright to force himself upon the people, nor has he a right to decline to serve them if it is the unanimous wish of the people, that his services are necessary." It would be hard to successfully assail the seemingly impregnable position so vigorously defined by the Robesonian, and we venture to remark it at the risk of being counted the friend and ally of some of the "ins."

The practice of naming Tom, Dick and Harry for Governor or Congressman or Judge because he is a "good fellow" and has "claims on the party is growing to be a positive nuisance. "In naming her next Governor we hope North Carolina will not forget her gallant son John Smith. He served her on the tented field and since the dark days of the war have passed he has been true to her every interests, cherishing and defending her honor and glory at all hazard. Certainly his claims will not be overlooked." We nominate Bill Jones, glorious fellow too, is Bill, for Congres from the Gourd Fiddle district. Our friend has served two terms in the lower branch of the State Legislature and is familiar with parliamentary tactics. He will soon make his mark in Congress." We are told by older men that in times agone it was a great honor even to be mentioned for the exalted office of Governor of North Carolina. A glance at her illustrious Governors and Congressmen would seem to warrant this assertion.

The "old school" politics have passed away. We never lived in those befor days. It has been our misfortune to live in the age of sham and shoddy. "In hours of sober reflection"-unfrequent as they are-we wonder if "trickery" is a product of modern politics. Or did it live in the better times in the disguise of statesmanship? Anyhow, it is not now dishonorable or discreditable to call a successful politician a "trickster."

There is hope for North Carolina Her modesty has been her one besetting sin. When we see her leading journalists, who are supposed to either lead or follow public sentiment, publishing their own adulative nominational letters and indorsements, we take fresh hope. It is a sign. THERE are two sides to every question-the Panama Canal Scheme included. De Lesseps has organized his Interoceanic Canal Company in Paris with a splendid capital of $160,000,000, which, he thinks, will suffice to dig this mighty ditch and leave a pretty reserve fund behind for emergencies. The income of the company, he promises in advance, will come to at least $18,-000,000 and will yield each stockholder the fancy interest of 111 per cent. Rough old Com. Ammen, of the opposition, however, who has trotted over the rocks of Panama again and again which de Lesseps, by-the-by, has only read of, laughs at this estimated cost of the proposed canal as picayunish and ridiculously low. It can hardly be called an estimate, he declares, having been the mere guess of a lot of young Parisian engineers who, knowing nothing of the matter, canal or Panama, gave a rough guess at the probable cost of this enterprise. In official circles in Washington the belief is gaining ground that the whole thing is a scheme on the part of M: DeLesseps to force upon the Paris congress the Panama route, which might be characterized as the pocket property of Lieutenant Bonaparte-Wyse. The best engineers pronounce that route impracticable and favor the Nicaraguan route. The United States has not officially taken position in favor of any of the routes. All the surveys made on the Isthmus except the so-called survey of Lieutenant Wyse have been conducted by the United States, and it is considered ill-advised to allow the work done by this government to go for maught and the construction of the canal to be under a company which has been organized by political intrigue, and which at the outset proposes to E NEW YORK SUN. Tuesday's New York Sen has blumn of double leaded stuff like this: We are for the Union, first, last, and in the middle. We are against seces-sion at all times, in all places, and under all circumstances.

Furthermore, we believe in fervently cherishing the memory of the dead who died for the Union.
We cannot concede to the rebels more than an honestly mistaken sentiment of patriotism.

We believe the difference, even in death, between dying for a right caus and dying for a wrong cause is very great, and that it will endure forever, because in its very essence it is inde structible." The treacherous sheet concludes with this hypocritical can't on its unholy Democratic lips:

"Let the Democratic principles o which Jefferson was the apostile, prevail say we, whether under the name of Robinson or Church-both good names-whether under the name of Kelly or of Tilden-let them prevail for on these true and hallowed princi ples of right and of equality of right rest the prosperity and happiness of all the millions who now dwell in thi broad land, and of the countless millions yet to be born within its borders."

Some people regard the Sun a Democratic newspaper. It is for sale. Who bids and how much.

Its fervent advocacy of Tilden is in tended, doubtless, to destroy him. It was a bold and able sheet before Mr. Danvas' departure from the country. Now it is brazen-faced ann simple.

THE school bill will be argued in the Supreme Court to-day. Whatever the decision of the court, the high character of the distinguished and honorable gentlemen who compose it will resent the slightest intimation of "fear, favor or reward.', The purity of our judiciary shines now with exceptional brilliancy. Though holding elective positions, no body who knows the stern virtue and incorruptible integrity of Smith and Dillard and Ashe will trouble themselves to inquire into their motives. A profound interest is manifested throughout the State in the question pending before the court. Not as a legal question, but as one deeply concerning the momentous and hitherto lamentably neglected cause of edu cation. We do not magnify matters in there is a deep-seated discontent in the saying public mind in regard to this matter. How poes the spread of the fever in Memphis this year compare with the epidemic of 1878? is a question often asked. Has it been more rapid or slower; more fatal or less so? The first death from yellow fever last year occurred thirty-seven days later than this year-on August 16, when two persons died. The fever came this year early in July-the tenth-when there were three deaths. The record for the first sixteen days of the epidemics of 1878 and 1879 compare as follows:

FIRST WEEK OF THE FEVER. 1878 - - 2000021-Total,

SECOND WEEK. - 1011316-Total, 13 1879 - - 1 0 2 4 4 6 7-- Total, 24 THIRD WEEK.

3 3-Grand total, 24 - 6 10-Grand total, 44 It will thus be seen that the fever this year has advanced much more rapidiy than it did in 1878. The deaths for the second week have been double those for the second week of that year, and the third week has commenced with an even higher average increase.

THERE is rather a satire than a serious recipe for securing fame. It is more easy to remember a single masterpiece than a multitude of splendid things, and great authors' names generally go, in public mention, with the name of some single great work of theirs. It is surprising to find how many people of merit have "sung one song and died." They have themselves a world of useless labor for fame by striking twelve the first time. Somewhat like the following, the author and his best production have found a lodgment in our minds:

Henry Carey-God Save the King. Hopkins-Hail Columbia. Key-Star Spangled Banner.

John Howard Payne-Home, Sweet Home. Charles Wolfe-Burial of Sir John Moore.

Charles Kingsley-The Three Fishers. THE Evening Visitor felicitates it self at the progress it is making in winning the affection and esteem, and, what is better, the patronage of the city. The Visitor, en passant, commends its morning cotemporaries. This is clever. Entre nous: the true journalist is a stranger to envy and narrow-mindedness. CHOLERA, or something akin to that malignant disease has made its appearance in the town of Dubuque, Iowa. Consternation prevails among the people and they are fleeing for their lives.

Observations on the Tobacco Crop.

We have information upon which we can rely for the present promise of the crop that so much concerns both the gricultural and manufacturing interest agricultural and manufacturing interest.

In the counties of Granville and Person full crops were planted; and in the early part of the season gave splendid promise. In Orange, Caswell and Alanance, there was not a full crop planted, the early approach of dry weather inter-posing. In all these counties, as elsewhere in the tobacco region, the drought has injuriously affected the first plant-ing. The weed has run up, and but-toned, and leaf narrow. The prospect for much fine tobacco is, therefore, a remote one; while continued favorable weather, and a late fall, a fair supply of lower grades may be reckoned on.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver. DAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side: the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss o' memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

BUFFALO LITHIA WATER,

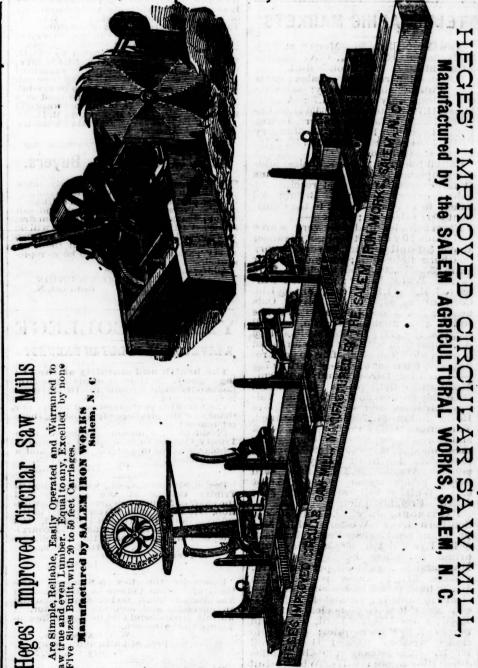

As a General Remedial Agent in Chronic Diseas

It is confidently claimed for these waters, and the claim though a strong one is substantiated by the testimony of many of the most eminent medical men of the country, both North and South, that in the following enumerated diseases: Affections of the Kidneys and Bladder, especially in Stone or Gravel, Dyspepsia, Rheumatic Gout, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Malarial Fevers in their chronic form, Dropsical Effusion, Uremia or Uremic Poison, Chronic Cutaneous Eruptious, and in the Functional Diseases peculiar to Women, more especially in al Disorders of the Menstrual Function. They have accomplished results as remarkable as were ever accomplished by any remedial agent whatsoever, whether in materia medical men as a preventative of the disturbance and dangers incident to Pregnancy.

These waters, in cases of the dozen half gallon bottles, $5 per case at the $5, rings. Pam phlets sent to any address. Springs open for guests 1st day of June.

NORFOLK.

Its Growing Trade and Facilities-A Public Spirited People. Correspondence of the News.

NORFOLK, Va., July 29.—The "City by the Sea" has always been noted for its conservatism in business. Although an old city of slow growth, it has maintained its present position, and has competed successfully with larger cities of more rapid growth, in-wealth and population, and has invariably dis-carded all wild cat speculations, stock jobbing, and those dangerous shoals which have invariably wrecked the reckless speculator. "Bulls" and "bears" from experience are totally unknown to her business men and banking houses. When the great financial crash of 1873, swept like a besom of destruction over the American continent, not a single bank in Norfolk suspended payment, but they all stood the great strain and promptly met all their obligations. So did the commercial house sin all the departments of trade; hence she always has maintained her credit of conservatism. She is a great trade center, and can supply all the demands of the average country merchant on as good terms as any other

I have been mixing freely with her business men, and predict that she is destined to become a great city. She is doing an immense business in groceries. I sketch some of the leading houses in this and other lines.

M. L. T. DAVIS & COMPANY., wholesale grocers; house established in 1865. They have been doing a large business in Virginia and North Caro-lina, and ther success has been without a parallel in the history of the grocery ade of Norfolk. The building, corner Water and Commerce streets, was built and is owned by them. It is a sub stantial, three-story, iron front, elegant brick structure, and affords ample room for transacting their business. The transactions of the house are with and sales made direct to dealers. They keep a large stock of such goods as are usually found in a first-class wholesale

The courteous, polite and efficient Captain Bell represents the firm in North Carolina, and is too favorably known to require praise at our hands.

EASTMAN, POWELL & COMPANY, vholesale grocers, occupy the spacious building corner Water and Commerce streets, keep on hand a complete and well assorted stock of goods to meet the increasing demands of their trade They possess ample capital, purchase for cash, and sell on a small margin for cash, regulating their prices in propor-tion to time of credit asked.

The members of the firm are gentle-men of high financial and social standing, have had years of successful experience in their line, thoroughly understand the wants of the trade, and are eminently qualified to conduct their business.

WADDILL, Esq., LYNCHBURG, VA.—Dear Sir: Observ-LYNCHBURG, VA.—Dear Sir: Observing a certificate from you in reference to the "Iron and Alum Mass," of the Seven Springs, in Washington county, Va., in relation to its efficacy for Liver Diseases, would you have the kindness to inform me whether you used the "Mass" or the "Water;" also, a description of the symptoms and such ther information as you may deem other information as you may deem pertinent. I am a long-time sufferer with Liver Complaint, and naturally feel very anxious on the subject of a remedy that will afford me even temporary relief. Your early reply will greatly oblige, very respectfully, WILLIAM BARR.

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 12, 1879.—WM. cured in my family from using the "Seven Springs Mass," is before me.
The case referred to in my certificate was that of my wife's sister, who is now in her 80th year, and has been a member of my family for the last 27 years. She had been afflicted with Liver Disease for 30 years, sometimes almost dying with pains in the back, breast, and heaviness of the chest, heart-burns (intensely), sick stomach, vomiting, &c. I procured a few bottles of the "Mass" for her, and very soon after she began the use of it, her health commenced to get better, and she conwriting, so old, seemingly in as good health as a person who had never been afflicted with these diseases. She attributes her cure entirely to the efficacy of the "Seven Springs Mass." I regard it one of the greatest family medicines we have access to, not only for such diseases as above indicated, but for various other complaints for which it is recommended. Hoping these answers satisfactory, I am, very truly, A. WAD-DILL, Proprietor Lynchburg News. For sale by Wm. Simpson, Pescud,

Infallibly Cure all Skin and Scalp Diseases, Scaly Eruptions, Itchings, and Irritations The testimonials of permanent cures of Skin and Scalp Diseases which have been the torture of a lifetime by the Cuticura Remedies, are more wonderful than any methods or remedies known to the medical methods or remedies known to the medical profession.

Cuticura Resolvent, a powerful Blood Purifier, is the only purifying agent which finds its way into the circulating fluid and thence through the oil and sweat glands to the surface of the skin, thus destroying the poisonous elements with which these vessels have been daily charged. Cuticura, The Great Skin Cure, applied externally, arrests all unnatural or morbid growth which cover the surface of the diseased glands and tubes with Scaly, Itchin g, and Irritating Humors, speedily it removes them. leaving the pores open, healthy, and free from diseased particles of matter.

Thus internally and externally do these great remedies act in conjunction, performing cures that have astonished the most noted physicians of the day.

Salt Rheum for 30 Years On the Head, Face, and Greater Par-of the Body, Cured.

of the Body, Cured.

Messrs, Weeks & Potter: Gentlemen, I have been a great sufferer with Salt Rheum for 30 years, commencing in my head and face and extending over the greater part of my body. I have taken gallons of medicines for the blood of different kinds and tried good physicians, all of which did me no good, and I came to the conclusion that I could not be cured. But a friend called my attention to an article in the Union on skin diseases, and I got a box of Cuticura. The first application was a great relief and the third took the scales all off, and I felt like a new man. I have used relief and the third took the scales all off, and I felt like a new man. I have used three 50-cent boxes and my skin is smooth and I consider myseif entirely cured. Hoping that this may be seen by some one afficted as I have been (if there is any) is my earnest wish. And I cheerfully recommend it to all persons afficted with like diseases.

Yours truly,

B. WILSON LORD.

AGAWAMPMASS., Sept. 9, 1878.

The Cuticura Soap should be used for cleansing all diseased surfaces, as most soaps are injurious to the skin.

sults from the use of Cuticura:

Messrs. Weeks & Potter: Gentlemen.—
We have a case of Leprosy in our poorhouse which is being cured by your Cuticura remedies. The county had employed all of our doctors and had sent to New York for advice, but to no avail.

The patient commenced using the Cuticura and immediately began getting better.

He had been confined to his bed for two and one half years. Had not had his clothes on during this time. Last week he dressed for the first time.

When he walked, there would at least one quart of scales come off of him.

This happened every day.

We think it is a wonderful cure.

We do not think he is cured, but he is in a fair way to be cured to say the least.

Yours truly,

The NEWS is pleased to record the worthy and commendable effort on the part of some of the colored people in the city to elevate their social standing in the community: This is the object of the Hesperian Social Club, recently organized in this city and composed of some of the best of our colored people. By carrying out the resolutions adopt-ed at the last meeting of the club they will do much toward the advancement of their social reform. They resolved (1), to exert their influence to establish and ultimately retrograde into a state of utter moral stagnation; (2), to test the claims and merits of all alike by the high standard of respectability, and
